

You can bank on Macquarrie Corp

60 years of quality and experience

IT'S not a bank, but Macquarrie Corporation has got a wealth of experience when it comes to servicing and repairing diesel engines.

With more than 60 years' experience, Macquarrie Corporation has turned itself from a specialist diesel engine reconditioning company to a specialist supplier of the best quality and affordable parts and products available to the transport market.

They stock only the highest quality parts from companies with the strictest quality controls.

In some instances, these products are manufactured from the same materials, on the same tooling, as OEM supplied components.

Macquarrie Corporation has parts to suit all the major brands, including Cummins and Detroit as well as original parts from UD. They also stock a large range of truck components and accessories.

Brisbane branch manager Neil Johns said if they couldn't find an aftermarket spare part to meet the highest standards possible, then he didn't hesitate stocking the original OEM part.

"Keeping prices low is important to our customers, so here at Macquarrie Corporation, we work hard with high-quality producers to eliminate unnecessary costs and we buy in the right quantities to reduce our prices," he said.

"Macquarrie Corporation runs a fully integrated distribution network that allows us to efficiently import, distribute and hold stock close to customers.

"The result is lower prices on high-quality products. If you find any product that isn't competitively priced then tell us, and we'll fix it."

The Brisbane branch of Macquarrie Corporation has had a major overhaul, and anyone passing the headquarters in Boundary Rd will clearly see the vibrant new colours designed to draw customers into a newly renovated building with a new team that will give customers a great trucking experience.

The head of the team Neil Johns has 13 years' experience with Cummins products. He has come into the organisation as a well-seasoned veteran with a successful track record.

Neil says he's a bit of a perfectionist, whether it is in sales records, building a strong and focused team or getting the highest quality products for his customers.

And his promise to you is that he will give you the best experience possible when you come into his branch.

With more than 90 staff in the different divisions around the country, the second-generation family business has an impressive portfolio of products it brings to the Australian market.

Macquarrie provides service and spares for camshafts, crankshafts, rebuild kits, bearings, seals, gaskets, valve train, water pumps, injectors, oil coolers, aftercoolers, flywheel housings, turbos, cylinder heads, filters, compressors, plus much more.

From truck and bus dealerships to suppliers and importers of quality products, Macquarrie Corporation is a truly unique Australian company.
